DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 15 and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yoshimura (USP 5,629,642). Figure 2 of Yoshimura shows a noise detector circuit for detecting noise in power supply comprising receiving a substantially noise free current signal (constant voltage generator 19 having a noise free 127 shown in figure 8), receiving one or more power supply signals (Vcc and ground), processing the substantially noise free current signal and the one or two power supply signals to detect noise signal in the one or two power supply signals and generating a noise detection signal (output of the comparator 20) in response to detection of noise signal as called for in claims 15, 18.

Regarding claim 17, figure 2 shows Vcc and ground are two voltage having different polarities (positive and negative).

Regarding claim 19, the output of the comparator 20 is a digital signal in response to the detection of noise signal.

Regarding claim 20, the noise detection threshold level is set by the generator 19 and the calibration potential level, the voltage level slightly above the ambient noise in the system, is embedded within the power supplies.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-14 are presently allowed.
4. Claim 16 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record fails to teach or fairly suggest the noise free current signal is a complementary current signals as called for in claims 1, 5 and 16.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
